

Giant parathyroid adenoma with hypersecretion and severe evolution - clinical case

V. Bâtcă¹, N. Jitea⁴, O. Albița¹, T. Rogin¹, T. Bîtcă², R. Bulata³

¹Secția Chirurgie 2, Spitalul Clinic de Urgență Militar Central, București

²Medic generalist, Parexel, București

³Laboratorul de Anatomie Patologică, Spitalul Clinic de Urgență Militar Central, București

⁴Clinica Chirurgie, Spitalul Clinic Colțea, București

Abstract

Primary hyperparathyroidism is an uncommon disease, with late diagnosis due to insidious and various symptoms. Parathyroid adenoma is the most frequent cause of primary hyperparathyroidism. This paper presents the clinic of disease, the necessary exams to perform in order to obtain a positive diagnose also the case of young man with long evolution period prior to diagnosis and with severe complications at bones. Surgery represents the only valid option resulting complete healing.

Key words: primary hyperparathyroidism, parathyroid adenoma, surgical treatment

Correspondență:

Conf. Univ. Dr Viorel Bâtcă

Facultatea de Medicină și Medicină Dentară, Universitatea "Titu Maiorescu

Str. Gheorghe Petrașcu" nr. 67A, sector 3, București, Cod 031593

E-mail: batcaviorel@yahoo.com