Abstract

Typical for organizing modern health care in surgical emergencies in Bucharest is the establishment in 1933 of Surgical Emergency Hospital (one of the first ones from Europe having this unique profile) in the building and under the management of the Ambulance Society, founded since 1906. The hospital went through many stages of activity untill 1960 when it became a part of another medical institution, with a larger vision in organizing surgical emergencies in Bucharest – Emergency Hospital Floreasca. Here it was developed the first independent ITU (1955) and several original reserches were done on traumatic shock.

Key words: organizing surgical emergency, emergency hospital, the first emergency hospital
